KALPANA

Kalpana is 6 years old and one of our newer orphans. She came to us in June of 2007. Her story is painful, shocking, and one that no child should have to tell, let alone live.

Her father was an alcoholic and drank himself to death. Kalpana's mother then sent her to the streets to beg. Tragedy struck again and their house collapsed in a storm. Kalpana, her mother and younger brother sought shelter at a train station. Kalpana's mother eventually married again, but the new husband did not want the burden of caring for Kalpana or her brother, a common situation in India. Kalpana's mother, did the only thing she could in her desperation. She determined to get rid of her children. Kalpana witnessed her mother bludgeoning her brother to death and she ran away. She lived at the train station for 3 months begging for food and money before being rescued and coming to Jane's House.

Please pray for Kalpana as she tries to heal from the trauma of her past and as she finds true family with the other orphans and widows.

Tear here and return bottom portion along with your donation.
